

A. External Stakeholder Testimonials

Evidence of Impact across Policy, Professional Development, Research and Clinical Practice

“The Department of Thai Traditional and Alternative Medicine envision TCM as a standardized, evidence-based pillar of Thailand’s health system, recognised at the international level. The tripartite collaboration between the Department, CICM at Thammasat University, and CDUTCM is a mechanism for turning that vision into reality and supporting the profession’s transition from being users of knowledge to creators of knowledge. The Department is confident that this partnership will serve as a cornerstone for elevating service quality, patient safety, and the sustainable integration of TCM into Thailand’s health system.”

Mr. Kulthanit Wanaratna

Director, Institute of Alternative Medicine

Department of Thai Traditional and Alternative Medicine, Ministry of Public Health, Thailand

30 August 2026

“The TCM Clinical Mastery Program has significantly contributed to advancing the standard of Traditional Chinese Medicine in Thailand by integrating international expertise with national professional development. The initiative strengthens practitioners’ clinical and research capabilities while fostering a sustainable nationwide network for continuous learning. As a higher education institution, we particularly value how the program expands access to professional development and enables TCM practitioners to advance their skills systematically.”

Orapa Sinlamuth

Dean, Faculty of Chinese Medicine

Huachiew Chalermprakiet University, Thailand

20 August 2026

“Transforming clinical practice into research strengthens the capacity of TCM practitioners to generate knowledge from real-world practice and produce quality research, helping build a strong foundation for the continued development of the TCM profession in Thailand.”

Orakoch Mahadilokrat, TCM Doctor (蔡佩玲)

Manager, Academic and Research Development Department

Huachiew Traditional Chinese Medicine Clinic, Thailand

25 July 2026

“The Traditional Chinese Medicine training programs organised by Thammasat University each year are highly valuable and relevant to real clinical practice. The programs cover a wide range of topics, including common conditions and practical treatment approaches that can be directly applied to patient care. They help refresh my knowledge and broaden my perspectives, enabling me to provide more appropriate and effective care for my patients.”

Nattaya Hengudomsawat

Navavej International Hospital, Thailand

1 October 2025

B. Chinese Medicine Clinic, Thammasat University Hospital

— Patient/Family Testimonials

"I was very impressed with the service and the doctor's attentive care. Following acupuncture treatment, we noticed improvement in the patient's neurological symptoms."

Somsong Preechapolkul

Family Member of a Patient

25 August 2026

"Very good. The doctor provided attentive care, and I felt very comfortable after the treatment."

Ming Yin

Patient/Service User

1 October 2026